In fact the only people with whom Mr. Mikoyan did not seem to have been an unqualified success were the Hungarian refugees — who escaped during the rising two years ago and to whom this welcoming of a Soviet official who must at least share the blame for his country's intervention in Hungary is an abomination — and the representatives of Jewish organizations. couraging. He said blandly that he could not see there was any "Jewish problem" in Russia, even giving the old-style anti-Semite's answer — "some of my best friends are Jews." Nevertheless he must know that Jews in any place, because of their history of constant movement and dispersion, seek not only the freedom to live and think and prosper accorded to their neighbours, but in addition the right to communicate with the rest of the world, and in particular with their relatives and friends. To some non-Jews that may seem an unimportant matter because stable populations maintain their family ties in their neighbourhood, and are more willing to write off those who chance to move away. For Jews the freedom to communicate, personally and intellectually, is essential, and to rob them of this freedom makes them feel as threatened as losing their other freedoms. Replies

The economic aspect of farming today is dependent upon the standard of produce, and this is directly connected with controlling the diseases which accompany intensive cultivation in all branches of agriculture. Flourishing agriculture cannot be conceived of today without a constant effort to protect the crops by the newest scientific methods of pest control. This is the situation with regard to countries whose agricultural conditions are more favourable, and is even more so with regard to Israel.

About two years ago, the Ministry of Agriculture Invited an expert to Israel within the framework of USOM and he studied the problems connected with the use of various control preparations. In his report this expert, Dr. Ginsburg, stated

The American Jews to whom Mr. Mikoyan spoke belong to the most firmly established Jewish community in the world outside Israel, and most of them, while they will help Israel devotedly, are not Zionists in the sense that they wish to settle here. Their pleading is not likely to cause the Soviet authorities either to restore the minority privileges of the Russian Jews, nor to relax the ban on emigration or Queried about his resignation, Prof. Dinur says that it was prompted by the need to devote his time to his own scientific works, much overdue. He has consented to carry on until April, since in any case Dr. Nahum Goldmann will arrive in Israel only in February. As President of the Claims Conference, Dr. Goldmann will doubtless have a voice in the selection of a new chairman, to be appointed by the Prime Minister.

Prof. Dinur will be leaving Yad veShem with its building plans complete. Work is now to begin in the Yad veShem compound on a Sanctuary of Meditation — Ohel Yiskor—a bare hall of architectural simplicity, a small synagogue and a towering obelisk memorial. A contract for the
